

TEACHERS HELPING TEACHERS

Supporting teachers in rural Myanmar receive formal qualifications, Yangon Archdiocese

You can make a difference today, it's simple!

Help your fellow teachers and support staff to educate children across the world.

See how you and your colleagues have supported the projects so far!

- Over $160,000 has been donated to support those who are a part of the Teachers Helping Teachers program
- The unique program now reaches three developing nations
- Over 3,000 students have received an education at Beatrix High School, an initiative of the Karunalaya Leprosy Care Centre
- 500 children have benefited from the 2017 Summer Camps, an initiative of the Pyinya Sanyae Institute of Education (PSIE) Myanmar project
- 90 students will have the opportunity for vocational training in sustainable agriculture at St Francis Agricultural and Technical High School in Cambodia: the expected completion of the tourism faculty facilities in 2019 will cater for a further 90 students.
- Teachers from PSIE now teach children in 16 village community schools: 80% of all student-teachers in the diploma program come from rural provinces in Myanmar.

Karunalaya Leprosy Care Centre & Beatrix High School (Puri, India)

To join us, please visit: www.mn.catholic.edu.au/showsupport

St Francis Agricultural and Technical High School (Phnom Penh Vicariate)

Flexible deductions (pre or post-tax) mean that you can give in anyway that you can. No donation is too small to make a positive difference to the lives of young people.

TEACHERS HELPING TEACHERS

in association with

If you're passionate about helping your fellow teachers, nominate to become a champion and lead the call for help at your school. Contact Chris Quinn for more information on 4979 1244 or chris.quinn@mn.catholic.edu.au